Hello there, our dream is to help you make great happen.

Accredited short course

If you want to work in the construction industry, you are required by law to successfully complete a General Safety Induction course (White Card). This half-day course meets Workplace Health and Safety Regulation 2008 and covers the skills and assessment necessary for a worker to enter and work on a construction site in Queensland. On successful completion of this course, you will be issued with a White Card.
