PROGRAM OVERVIEW
This tour will take students studying Education support to Samoa to learn about their industry outside of Australia. In particular the role that education plays in community development. Hosted by the Australian Pacific Training Coalition, student will participate in classes, engage with local educators, meet local students and participate in volunteer placements.

The Australian Pacific Training College has been selected to host this program due to its recognised expertise in addressing skills shortages and its strong reputation in Samoa.

Through this program students will further develop their personal and professional skills, thereby increasing their employability. This program is linked to core units of competency in the Certificate III and IV in Education Support.
